We are pleased to announce that the new Environmental Health Services website is online!

With a tremendous amount of effort and collaboration our old website has been updated. The results not only look great but are much easier to navigate. We are excited to launch this new website offering these new features and more!

- View a number of press releases and recalls listed on our homepage and sign-up to receive e-mails when new press releases and recalls are posted.
- The new FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions) section is a growing, living document that will keep you informed on the topics that you, the public, have requested.
- Find out how your favorite restaurant scored on their last inspection and also view previous scoring history.
- Easily access food worker training information.

We look forward to bringing helpful and revealing information to our audience. Our new website is a big leap forward in our continuing effort to protect and serve the public. Check us out at
